

WWDC Bingo

Follow along as Tim and friends give the keynote at WWDC 2012 and check off the boxes as they announce new products and features. Fill in five boxes horizontally, vertically, or diagonally, and you win because you haven't strayed from the creative vision that Steve Jobs established. If you lose, it's because Tim Cook has allowed you to become overrun by bean counters and project managers who have crushed your innovative spirit, leaving you to pander to "fanboys and iSheep."

iOS 6	"This is our first WWDC without Steve..."	MacBook Pro without an optical drive	Facebook integration	OS X Mountain Lion "arriving soon at the App Store..."
MacBook Pro with an optical drive	New Maps app	Ivy Bridge	Retina display	"Apple products are making inroads into the enterprise..."
iPhone with 4-inch screen	"As compared to Windows 8..."	Free! 	Mac Pro update	Talking about Google without mentioning it by name
iOS features in OS X Mountain Lion	MacBook Air update	"iPad is the most popular tablet in the world..."	Apple TV	Siri for iPad (with or without a celebrity TV ad.)
"What we learned from the Flashback Trojan..."	iPad Mini	USB 3.0	Talking about Samsung without mentioning it by name	Sandboxing

www.matthewarnoldstern.com @maswriter